To be an active member of Youth Parliament organised by my alma mater was very exciting and fruitful. It was conducted on a day before Republic Day this year where we learnt about the functioning and preceding of Parliament. It was spectacular to see young learners enacting the role of Ministers. It was indeed a learning experience.

Diya Gandhi(V-B)

It is always told to us that learning by doing leaves permanent impression and the day when we got a chance to participate in mock parliament we realised the fact that there is a big difference between being a participant and being a spectator. This experience made us aware about the procedure of passing a bill.
