The main concerns of the students were:

- I) How can they perform well in the offline exams when two years of teaching was completely online?

The PM advised students to keep online learning as a sort of "reward" after studying offline or use it to supplement the offline notes they received from their teachers.

- II) Due to everything being online, they have been addicted to online gaming and also so much exposure to social media how can they concentrate in their studies?

When asked about how to deal with distractions when learning online, PM Modi said that it was the mind and concentration that were the problem and not the mode of learning.

He also suggested using mobile tools to discipline oneself and keep track of how long students were using apps other than for studying.

He also asked students to spend some time daily connecting with themselves and introspecting.

- III) How can the students cope up with the immense pressure from both parents and teachers.

"Parents sometimes fail to closely observe the strength and interests of their children. We should understand that every child is blessed with something extraordinary that parents and teachers fail to discover a lot of times," the PM added.
