SVS REVIEW

VOLUME: IV, ISSUE 1

APRIL 2021 TO MARCH 2022

Dear Parents,

We know that the past few years have been an ordeal for all of us, both, as a community and as individuals. It had been especially challenging for the children to suddenly switch to an online life from the buoyant one they were relishing at school. However, extraordinary situations create extraordinaires.

It is important to look past the problem to find the solution and our dear children have shown marvellous resilience and performance even during these trying times. Their spirit and enthusiasm have kept us going and pushed us to give our best during online classes.

As teachers and parents, it is our responsibility to be empathetic and compassionate to the children irrespective of the situation. It is during these times that we as parents and teachers need to cooperate more than ever so that we can be the best support to our children.

We strongly believe that despite the circumstances, we can unitedly build a hopeful future for the students. As parents, you are now endowed with an opportunity and responsibility to be a mother/father, teacher, friend, and confidante all at once for your children.

"The greater the difficulty, the more glory in surmounting it. Skillful pilots gain their reputation from storms and tempests."

- Epictetus

As teachers, we are here to employ every means and tool to provide the best and wholesome learning experience for our students. Together, we can work to keep the fire of curiosity, skill, and knowledge alive among these students. Together, let's turn this obstacle into a new learning opportunity.

Best wishes,

S.P. Suresh

A world full of words

He is the recipient of the Youngest Author of Assam award, and helps inspire other children discover the world of literature. Thirteen-year-old Riyad Maroof Hassan shares his experiences with Hasini Lakshmi Narayanan, founder of the First Step, a YouTube channel that features interviews of young achievers.

Riyad Maroof Hassan, Class: VIII
Shiksha Valley School, Dibrugarh

The Youngest Author of his book 'You're the Winner' was published in December 2018. I was 10 years old then. It was for that book I was given the Youngest Author of Assam award by Assam Book of Records.

Tell us about your poem "Shards of Healing".
I wrote the poem, was lots of people suffering during the coronavirus pandemic, then there's the issue of pollution, all these things were on my mind. I compiled my thoughts into a poem, and titled it "Shards of Healing". It highlights the darkness we live in. It was published in a magazine and an online poetry platform for young poets.

What does your company Clippies do?
After I created the account, I was asked to speak at a local high school on Children's Day. When I had a question-and-answer session with the students there, I got to know that many students were curious about this field. So I came up with a social media page called Clippies on Twitter, where content could read my work. Where the pandemic hit, and classes went online, I created Clippies, a media channel. My first intention for the channel was with another student, a friend, who wanted to be a journalist. He had some ideas for a story. I got an idea for a story. I wrote it down. But during the lockdown, I got a lot of spare time, so I was able to spend more time on writing.

What are your plans for the future?
I am close to publishing my second book "The Journey of Time". There are more books to be published. I also have to work on the expansion of my book store.

What do you want to tell young people like you?
If you all wish to do something before that you can do it. If there is a will, there is a way. If you have the motive to change something, you can do it.

The idea of creating a book store.

What is your talk show about?
I realized that many children are active, but I made my talk show primarily for such children. The audience, not people who are with famous stars, members of Parliament, famous knowledge but students.

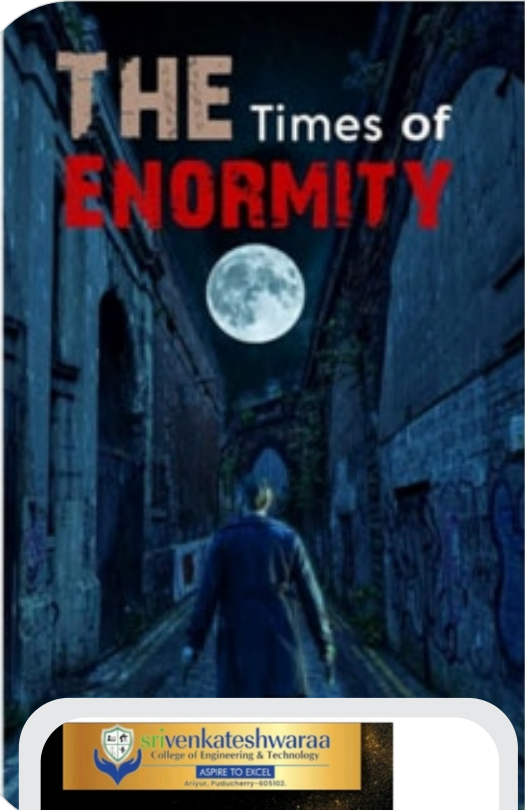

What is your inspiration?
Authors like C.S. Lewis, J.R.R. Tolkien, and Neil Gaiman. My father and grandfather are both authors, and I am inspired by them. I am also inspired by the young people I interview on my talk show.

What are your hobbies?
I started painting when I was four years old. I also love singing and mixing games. I love playing football.

How do you manage your time?
After classes start online, I had to study during the weekends. Otherwise, I got an idea for a story. I wrote it down. But during the lockdown, I got a lot of spare time, so I was able to spend more time on writing.

What are your plans for the future?
I am close to publishing my second book "The Journey of Time". There are more books to be published. I also have to work on the expansion of my book store.

Taekwondo comes from three Korean words, tae, "kick," kwon, "fist or punch," and do, "the art of." That's a pretty good description of this dynamic martial art, which involves acrobatic kicks and graceful punches. Like all martial arts, taekwondo isn't just combat — it's also an art and a discipline.

Motivational Session

In Roger Crawford's word, "being challenged in life is inevitable, being defeated is optional." These are rare moments where we can find people who prove these words true and Tanwi Shams is an inspiration, who has numerous accolades added to her name. She is currently a Ph.D Research Scholar at the Dept. of Law, North Eastern Hill University, Shillong and has done her Masters of Law in Intellectual property and Technology Law and MBA in Human Resource from North University of Singapore. Besides, she was bestowed with many awards including All India Cheaving Fellowship for pursuing Masters of Law in National University of Singapore and the prestigious UGC-JRF fellowship, Govt. of India for five years for pursuing Ph.D. in Law at NEHU, Meghalaya, to name a few. Miss Tanwi graced us with her presence on 21st March 2022 to guide and motivate our students that life has a way of throwing one off balance when we least expect it, but one needs to stay strong and cross hurdles to reach the pinnacle of success. Unfortunately, she met a terrible accident during her school-life which left her crippled. She encouraged children with a live example of herself that how she converted a breakdown into a breakthrough with her strong will and courage.

The endeavours of the children reflected their vibrancy and passion as the 21st Century Scholars who will never fail to forward their best feet when ever it comes for taking a task which serves humanity in general.

A Poem

When I begin writing a poem,
I remember the ventures happened in my life
A flashback hits my mind.
The toughest times come to my pen
The grace of the happiest times,
Inks the paper.
And sitting beside the window
The sensation of writing,
Excites my soul.

When I begin writing a poem,
I invite experiences and wisdom.
Wondering the nature leaves my
Heart to take the pen.

When I begin writing a poem,
Euphoria vibrates from my head to toe.
