“Architecture should speak of its time and place, but yearn for timelessness”. Frank Gehry

Architects have the ability to change the world that we live in with their amazing work. Architects play a massive role in society. Their work is a combination of both science and art, which draws on and intertwines with politics, economics, sociology, psychology, and more!

Architecture is incredibly important and architects have the potential to shape all of lives through their hard work. In addition, architecture plays an essential role in planning for the future, sustaining population growth and tackling a number of social, cultural and environmental problems.

“Much like a painted masterpiece, architecture is an art form that has the ability to delight, inspire, and transform.”

World Architecture Day is a global observance held annually on the first Monday of October to remind the world of its collective responsibility for the future of the human habitat. Another way to observe and celebrate Architecture Day is to pay tribute to the incredible work that has been done by the architects.
